The Wetland Project

Visitors to Brook Eden will be familiar with the slightly over-grown, weed-filled native wetland area which sits at the bottom of the vineyard. What you mightn't know is that it contains numerous platypus, native hens, plovers, breeding swans, nesting hawks, a family of ducks and plenty of frogs. It's also a great indicator of the environmental health of Brook Eden, because anything we add to the soil air or water, could find its way into the wetland.

We have decided to begin a long-term regeneration project, with the assistance of LandCare to revitalise the Brook Eden wetland as a habitat for rare and endangered native species. It will eventually have a board-walk, viewing areas, interpretive signage and some magic places to picnic and see some interesting birds and animals in their native surrounds. Till then, if you'd like to see platypus in the wild, just ask Peter or Sue when next you visit and we'll show you the best places to spot them.

Riesling is back!

Everyone who missed out on the '03 Riesling will be happy to know we're bottling the '05 as you read this. It's flavour profile is shaping up as identical to the gold medal '03, so if you'd like us to keep a case or two in reserve for you, give us a call, or email mail@brookeden.com.au and we'll keep some aside (there's not a lot this year and it tends to go rather quickly) We will of course be including Riesling in Vintage Club member's tasting packs, which we'll probably dispatch in March (and we'll hide some away for member's orders) But get in quick if you'd like us to keep you some.

eMail or snailMail?

How do you prefer we keep in touch? If you'd rather we send you newsletters and special offers by email, send your email address to members@brookeden.com.au and we'll save a few more Tassie trees.
